Announcing the BEST Together Podcast!

To reach more families across numerous time zones, BEST is adding a new podcast format to our BEST Together project. Such as our webinars, it’s for parents, professionals, and those with lived experience to share their stories. The BEST Together Podcast will be available on all podcast outlets and linked from our social media pages and website next month. Stay tuned!

Meet Heather Field

Be sure to tune in next month when Heather Field will be our guest on your first BEST Together podcast. One of eight children, Heather was born and raised in Australia and lost her sight by the age of one and a half. She grew up attending a school for the blind and then a regular high school, enjoying hobbies such as judo, roller-skating, bush walking, playing guitar and writing. She has a Master’s degree in Special Education, and taught as a Special Ed. Support Resource Teacher in Australian public schools, before moving to America in 1997. Heather now runs a small private school and tutoring business out of her home, as well as provides educational consulting, parent coaching and advisement services. Through the sight loss is not a disability campaign, as well as through her work with blind and low-vision children and their parents, Heather is convinced that it is not the amount of vision one has that makes all the difference! – It’s what you do with everything else you do that makes all the difference.

Staff Spotlight: Patience Piesecki

Hi! I’m Patience and I have been a certified Teacher of the Visually Impaired for 8 years now and have worked with individuals of all ages and abilities for over 11 years. I believe that our field has a unique aspect to it as no two children are alike – that’s why advocating for what is best for the child. Additionally, I finished up my +30 employment on a full- or part-time basis. Please contact us at info@blindearlyservices.org to learn more.

Meet Heather Field

Be sure to tune in next month when Heather Field will be our guest on your first BEST Together podcast. One of eight children, Heather was born and raised in Australia and lost her sight by the age of one and a half. She grew up attending a school for the blind and then a regular high school, enjoying hobbies such as judo, roller-skating, bush walking, playing guitar and writing. She has a Master’s degree in Special Education, and taught as a Special Ed. Support Resource Teacher in Australian public schools, before moving to America in 1997. Heather now runs a small private school and tutoring business out of her home, as well as provides educational consulting, parent coaching and advisement services. Through the sight loss is not a disability campaign, as well as through her work with blind and low-vision children and their parents, Heather is convinced that it is not the amount of vision one has that makes all the difference! – It’s what you do with everything else you do that makes all the difference.

Staff Spotlight: Patience Piesecki

Hi! I’m Patience and I have been a certified Teacher of the Visually Impaired for 8 years now and have worked with individuals of all ages and abilities for over 11 years. I believe that our field has a unique aspect to it as no two children are alike – that’s why advocating for what is best for the child. Additionally, I finished up my +30 employment on a full- or part-time basis. Please contact us at info@blindearlyservices.org to learn more.